

The visit was all too short. Your father seemed to do well also your mother - Our tongues just ran while they were here. I'm glad indeed that your lines have fallen to you and yours in such pleasant places. May it always so continue - and may the good work always prosper in your hands. Your parents attended the unveiling of the Merideth Monument: it was a big time for old Wayne: about five thousand people present. Do you know that Lizzie and Katie (your sisters) attended Commencement exercises at Lewisburg? Such is the fact. I fear you will feel disappointed when you read the history at not finding more account of your work in this part of the State - but I had to cuttail everything as much as possible: as it is I found it a big job before completing it and I had Katie about Dick to copy it, as she had only her noon hour to work on it because she has no type written at her home. She could not do as many as was necessary to reach around.
